Hafa Adai. Loved Ones!

The time has come for the Class of 2022 to finally cross our tassels and toss our caps in the air. We can finally face the world with eager dreams but before embarking into a new voyage or flight we must reflect upon our experiences. Reflecting on our past journeys, has helped mold us into the young people we are today and allowed us to acknowledge the individuals, who paved the path of our experiences with great appreciation.

To our loved ones who give us unconditional support. You are our heroes. We have watched you face an immense amount of obstacles and have undergone sacrifices, but you continue to emerge and defy the odds. Now it is our turn, we will apply the knowledge and wisdom that you have taught us, we will continue to use our brave minds and courageous hearts as you have shown us. These are the actions that you have taken to protect us, and for that we will forever be thankful for.

To our teachers and mentors around the world, thank you for seeing us for who we are. You recognized that our differences were one-of-a-kind and of great value. You treated us by showcasing our strengths and never faulting us for our weaknesses. The drive you instilled within us has manifested itself to succeed and pursue a life of passion, to follow our dreams and be the change we wish to see in the

The pandemic occurring during our high school years caused us to face one of our greatest challenges of change. With the guidance of our parents and teachers, we were able to find a path rooted in adaptability and resilience. We used these roots to take action and pursue our ambitions and dreams. Although the pandemic was a challenge, we excelled and flourished through lessons learned; through academics, extracurricular activities and community service, we are a few of the many who can say that we graduated during an age of uncertainty. We as future leaders, as the class of 2022, recognize this sense of hopelessness and loss but also realize that with tenacity, we are able to spread change and impact our island and our world.

It is now time, time for our loved ones, educators, and community to witness the bittersweet moment as each graduate walks across the stage and takes that first step onto a new journey, one that they will make on their own. Thank you to everyone who has guided us and taught us how to fly endless skies and sail limitless seas. We are ready, ready to take on this world with every step we take.
