THE GUAM GUIDE

From Filipino-Chamorro cuisine to affogato & cookies, these spots are going all in to make sure your cravings are satisfied!

1. My Husband Told Me To Chill It

From the people behind one of Guam’s TCG stores, My Wife Told Me To Sell It, this cafe brings an even sweeter experience for card hobbyists and collectors alike. My Husband Told Me To Chill It, a play on words of its card store counterpart, offers a selection of sweet treats for all to enjoy. From their brookies to their butter pecan lattes, their delicacies will hit as good as pulling a rare Pokémon card. The cafe operates alongside the card store, so you can now enjoy ripping card packs while partaking in the sweetest of treats. All in one place!
