THE STORY GAVE RISE TO THE TRADITION OF SECRET GIFT-GIVING
UNDER THE COVER OF NIGHT.

Germany's TRADITIONS

By Jessica Zen and Kristi Adams

Get ready to sing "O Tannenbaum, o Tannenbaum, wie treu sind deine Blätter!" to get in the holiday spirit in Germany! From St. Nicholas Day all the way to Christmas Day, there are many reasons to look forward to the coming of Christ.

In Germany, St. Nicholas is based on the Catholic saint, St. Nicholas of Myra – a wealthy, benevolent saint who had a penchant for secretly leaving gifts, particularly under the cover of darkness. Born into a wealthy family on March 15, 270, Nicholas quickly developed a reputation for secret gift-giving as well as a variety of miracles. He died Dec. 6, 343 A.D., hence the reason his feast day is observed on Dec. 6.

One legend tells the story of St. Nicholas secretly helping a man who had three daughters, but could not afford a proper dowry for them. With no dowry to offer a potential husband, the father feared for prospects of his daughters. Nicholas heard of the father's plight and secretly threw three bags of gold through the man's window. The story gave rise to the tradition of secret gift-giving under the cover of night.

In preparation for St. Nicholas, German children leave cleaned and polished boots and shoes near doors and windows on the evening of Dec. 5 and awake to find presents and goodies. To this day, along with other gifts and sweets, children will often find oranges in their shoes, as a nod to the bags of gold left by St. Nicholas so many years ago.

Dec. 6 is often the "big day" for presents and gift-giving in German culture, with a smaller celebration on Christmas Eve. Although St. Nicholas traditions may vary a bit in Germany by region, it's common for many villages to host a St. Nicholas Day parade, and many churches observe a St. Nicholas Day mass.

SPENDING TIME WITH FAMILY IS EXTREMELY IMPORTANT, SO MANY
TRAVEL ON THIS DAY AND MOST BUSINESSES ARE CLOSED.

Christmas Eve is dedicated to putting up the tree and attending mass. "Weihnachtsbäume," Christmas trees, are generally fir, spruce or pine and is decorated with tinsel, glass ornaments and a star or angel christening the top. Nativity scenes are placed below the tree. Gifts are opened and many people go to mass on Christmas Eve, traditionally at midnight, though earlier services are provided for families. Spending time with family is extremely important, so many travel on this day and most businesses are closed.

Christmas Day is a time for indulging in a feast with family. Eating traditional dishes like carp and potato salad or roasted goose stuffed with apples, chestnuts, onions or prunes brings families together at the dinner table. Both Dec. 25 and 26 are legal holidays and businesses are closed. Dec. 26 is a quieter day and time for peaceful contemplation of the presence of the Christ Child.

With so many opportunities, you can celebrate all month long! Share the story of St. Nicholas with your children, attend a Christmas Eve mass and spend some quality family time together eating a Christmas feast. Germany has some fabulous traditions we can all adopt! ■

GERMANY DAY TRIP

By Jessica Zen

Bodenmais

Lush green forests delicately draped in winter's finest blanket of snow invite outdoor enthusiasts of all ages to experience a wonderland in Bodenmais. This quaint town in the Bavarian Forest sits in the Zeller Valley and is the perfect place for a day trip if you're located in Bavaria region or Stuttgart area.

ACTIVITIES

The landscape at Bodenmais calls to visitors to take magnificent hikes through the trees or go racing down the local ski hill. With only 3,500 people living here, it's the perfect winter escape away from the crowds that the Alps draw.

The king of the Bavarian hills, the Great Arber, stands tall at 4,776 feet. All levels of ski run difficulties are available here, from bunny hills to more challenging runs at the peak. This family-friendly ski location has a children's ski area with conveyor belts and 14 ski and snowboard schools. Take this fabulous opportunity to teach younger skiers the basics! There is also a gondola and two six-seater chairlifts. This area is also idea for cross-country skiing trails and ski touring.

If skiing isn't for you but you just can't get enough of the crisp mountain air laced with the scent of pine, utilize the 49 miles of rolling maintained hiking trails. The glittering snow and nature's finest ice sculptures are sure to dazzle walkers. Try the Oberlohries-Riedlberg-Mais circular route. This easy hike takes about

THE GLITTERING SNOW AND NATURE'S FINEST ICE SCULPTURES ARE SURE TO DAZZLE WALKERS.

3 hours and is 5.7 miles long, with an opportunity to stop for refreshments half way. Other activities available include snowshoeing or a forest toboggan run.

After you've frozen your toes and maybe your cheeks, head to Silberberg Bathing and Sauna Park to warm up. Their new indoor panoramic pool overlooks the forest and offers vacationers and ideal location for rest, relaxation and refreshments. Children can splash in the fun area while adults can enjoy the sauna park.

For an incredibly unique dining experience, visit Böhmhof-Alm, one of Germany's smallest restaurants. This tiny location only seats four people. What it lacks in size, it makes up for in food! Here you can get a traditional multi-course Bavarian meal, as well as choose from a selection of special wines, beers and schnapps. You can also have meat or cheese fondue. Make reservations for an intimate date night you won't soon forget!

WINTER EVENTS

Though the town is small, there are many events that draw visitors. The Christkindlanschießen- a tradition that arose in the 17th century, is rooted in legends and folklore about the awakening of nature during the winter. Loud noises created by bells or whips were once used to keep the demons and sinister figures at bay. This event is still celebrated annually. Should you find yourself in Bodenmais over the New Year, there is a celebration in the marketplace with an open-air dance floor, music and drinks. In January, the JOSKA Glasparadies hosts the Festival of Lights. During this time a variety of light shows, fireworks, hot fire shows, laser shows, illuminations and pyro effects take place while a DJ plays party music.

GETTING THERE

From Stuttgart, Bodenmais is about 4 hours east. Drive time from Bavaria depends on departure point, but the town is located in the district of Regen, close to the Czech Republic.

Don't let the cold weather keep you from traveling during the winter. Bundle up and head out to explore new and unknown places. Whether you're after a leisurely day with the kids or an adrenaline packed weekend, consider Bodenmais for your holiday time. ■

Winter Wonders of SWITZERLAND

By Jessica Zen

Switzerland is one of the greatest places to visit during the winter months with its breathtaking landscapes, picturesque villages, and an incomparable, magical atmosphere. Whether you want to ski, hike unwind at fancy spas or indulge in tasty Swiss delicacies, Switzerland has something for everyone. Plan your winter getaway to some of the best resort towns the country has to offer.

GRINDELWALD

The charming Swiss village of Grindelwald is located at the base of the north face of the Eiger Mountain. Grindelwald's quaint shops, numerous restaurants, and abundance of winter activities make it a perfect location to explore the wonders of Switzerland. Enjoy the surrounding mountainous views while you ski, hike or simply relax in the village.

A part of the Jungfrau region, one of Europe's most popular skiing destinations, Grindelwald is directly linked to the Wengen ski area and offers 132 miles of ski terrain with over 50 ski runs and 20 chairlifts. Skiing enthusiasts of all ages and skill levels will appreciate the vast array of ski runs in the Bernese Alps. Families often find Grindelwald a prime location for children to learn to ski. The Bodmi slopes are gentler for beginners and the ski school can be easily accessed from the base village. While the beginners enjoy the tamer slopes, intermediate skiers can be assured that there is something for them as well. The majority of runs are red and blue. Though experts may find that there aren't many black runs, they will find plenty of-run and glacier skiing.

Skiing isn't the only draw to Grindelwald in the winter. For those who prefer not to be strapped into ski boots but still want some fresh air, dazzle your senses with a hike on the First-Waldspitz-Bort trails. This series of mountain trails feature simultaneous views of snow-covered huts, forests, and valleys, all while the cliffs of the Wetterhorn and Eiger dominate the backdrop. The hike takes approximately two and a half hours, but don't worry about getting hungry. The mountain restaurant Waldspitz is just waiting for you to refuel on the patio while delighting in the lake scenery. Don't miss the First Cliff Walk, a lookout platform for thrill seekers that hovers 147 feet above the valley, offering a marvelous view of the Eiger.

If you are seeking a winter getaway that doesn't include traipsing through the snow looking for an adrenaline rush, consider relaxing at Belvedere. This four-star hotel is home to a spa and wellness center that will melt away all your problems. The spa area has a swimming pool, whirlpool, salt water jacuzzi, Finnish sauna, glacier steam bath, heat mine gallery, and much more. In addition to the pools and saunas, the spa offers massages for a total relaxation experience. Finish up with a facial and feel fresh as a spring daisy, despite the cold weather.

ZERMATT

Surrounded by the peaks of the Pennine Alps, including the famous Monte Rosa and Matterhorn, Zermatt also offers a plethora of activities. Though the small town only boasts three main streets, Zermatt has numerous cross-streets filled with restaurants and hotels just waiting for tourists to come knocking on their doors. It takes a mere 30 minutes to walk across this remarkable town, which is convenient, as only a very few battery powered cars are allowed. However, electric shuttles are available.

To begin your Zermatt adventure, hop on the world's first fully electrified cog railway, the Gornergrat Bahn. It is Europe's highest open-air cog railway and transports passengers from Zermatt station to the summit of Gornergrat. After a scenic 30 minute ride to the top, be prepared for a photo opportunity of a lifetime. The panoramic view showcases Monte Rosa, Switzerland's highest peak, Gorn Glacier, and the Matterhorn.

If you don't want the experience to end, consider staying at the 3100 Kulmhotel Gornergrat, where you will find a restaurant, astronomical observatory, chapel and shops.

From the top of the Gornergrat there is access to multiple hiking trails. Strap some snowshoes on your feet and explore Challenge Trail. This leisurely trail is close to the railway and descends about 985 feet, for a pleasant hour-long hike. Exceptional views of the railway and the snow-covered landscape are guaranteed.

After all that fresh air and exercise, pamper yourself with some serious down time at one of the many local spas. Hotel Eden Wellness has an indoor pool and spa to ease the most tense of muscles. Book an appointment in the evening for a massage, holistic therapy, gemstone therapy and much more to wrap up a successful winter day.

ST. MORITZ

Nestled in the Engadin valley, the glamorous village of St. Moritz has earned international fame for hosting the Winter Olympics not once, but twice. Lake St. Moritz adds even more village appeal with its White Turf horse races, snow polo, and ice cricket tournaments. Throw in some devilish ski runs, après ski clubs, and a bobsled run for the perfect combination of winter activities. This swanky village resort area has something for everyone.

For a skiing experience you won't soon forget, check out Diavolezza. Legend has it that once upon a time a lovely, red-haired she-devil lived on this mountain. If the legend is true, she certainly left some particularly hellish runs for the more experienced skiers. The runs on Diavolezza include over 13 miles of red and six miles of black. This snow-covered behemoth is not for the faint of heart!

For some après-ski activities, consider going to the Alpina hut on Corviglia Mountain. This rustic hut sits on a large rock overlooking the town and the lovely Engadin valley. Relax with a drink from the snow bar outside while you soak up some rays on the sun terrace. If you are craving more than just a drink, the hut restaurant serves local specialties and traditional home-style Swiss dishes.

A trip to Switzerland just isn't complete without trying traditional cheese fondue and an Engadine walnut tart. Reserve a table at Restaurant Engiadina for a truly spectacular taste of local cuisine. Their menu offers a variety of cheese fondues, along with other traditional favorites. After enjoying the fondue, finish off the night with dessert at Confectionary Hanselmann. Here you can find the famous Engadine walnut tart, a local favorite that confectioners have been perfecting for years. Filled with crème, caramel and walnuts, this sweet treat is sure to leave you feeling satisfied.

Switzerland has so much to offer during the winter months, from skiing to relaxing at the spa, there are enough activities to keep everyone entertained for days. Spend some time exploring where Swiss watches, army knives, chocolate, banks and yodeling originated. You'll return from your trip invigorated from all the fun you had flying down the slopes and over-indulging in delicious food. Why wait? Start planning your getaway to experience the winter wonders of Switzerland today! ■

European Getaways

Off-the-Beaten Path

By Stacy Roman

Home to iconic sights and landmarks, living and traveling in Europe is a dream. The lovely canals of Amsterdam, the remarkable works of the Sistine Chapel in Rome, the Acropolis in Greece – the list goes on and on. You've probably got a few of these postcard-worthy spots on your bucket list, but so does almost everyone else. If alpine villages, snow-capped jagged peaks and serene lakes sound appealing, discover these three off-the-beaten path destinations.

GRINDELWALD, SWITZERLAND

Enveloped by impressive mountains and sheer limestone cliffs in the Bernese Swiss Alps is the charming village of Grindelwald. Tucked at the base of Eiger Mountain, this village is a prime location for adrenaline junkies all year long. In the winter, visitors can whizz down pristine slopes on one of the 12 surrounding mountains. Grindelwald also hosts the International Snow Festival in January, complete with intricate ice and snow sculptures. During the summer, take a journey back in time on the Jungfrau Bahn. The train travels a steep 9 kilometers from the base of the mountain to the highest railway station in Europe. Once at the top, head to the Sphinx Terrace and drink in the stunning vistas from the viewing platforms. If you're craving a little winter sports action, pop over to Snow Fun Park, where visitors can enjoy sledding, skiing and snowboarding in the middle of the summer.

LINZ, AUSTRIA

The third-largest city in Austria rests along the Danube almost exactly halfway between more well-known cities such as Vienna and Salzburg. Once home to Mozart, this enchanting city is full of cobblestone streets, imposing cathedrals and plenty of museums. Named a UNESCO Creative City, Linz also has an incredible up and coming arts scene. The Ars Electronica Museum is home to innovative and futuristic technology. Visitors are encouraged to explore the hands-on, interactive exhibits. Or if you'd rather discover the city, take a ride on the Pöstlingbergbahn — an old cog wheel railway which takes riders to the top of Pöstlingberg. Experience breathtaking views and sweeping panoramas of the city and the countryside below.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, GERMANY

A little closer to home for those stationed in Germany, the lake-side hamlet of Friedrichshafen on the shores of beautiful Lake Constance is a worthy contender. For aviation buffs, significant German aviation history was made in this industrious city. Ferdinand von Zeppelin established his factory for making the gigantic namesake steel airships. Today, the Zeppelin Museum houses a replica of the infamous Hindenburg which visitors can walk through. If younger kids get a little restless, take a small 20-minute drive northeast to Ravensburger Spielaland. This amusement park has plenty of rides and attractions to expend their energy. Need a slower pace? Stroll along the Uferpromenade Friedrichshafen. Gaze across the water (yes, you're looking at Switzerland over there) and enjoy local delicacies as the sunsets.

Living in Europe affords the opportunity of a lifetime with travel. You can conquer the bustling halls of Parliament and Big Ben in London, view Paris from atop the Eiffel Tower and witness singing gondoliers in Venice. However, you can skip the lines and crowds and head to more magical, yet slightly more obscure destinations. You never know what treasures you'll find when you travel off-the-beaten path. ■

Toboggan Run

If you have the time, head back down from the First summit and head towards the Pfingstegg station to hop on a chairlift to reach the start of a toboggan run, which is 736 meters long and has you riding down 58 meters the mountain at speeds of 40
